MAGUINDANAO MASSACRE

Political rivalry not 'rido'-driven

By James C. Thompson

The Maguindanao massacre, the worst in Philippine history, was not a 'rido' (feud) between two rival families, but a political rivalry between two rival political dynasties.

The massacre, which took place on Nov. 23, 2009, in Maguindanao, was the result of a long-standing political rivalry between the two families.

The rivalry between the two families has been a source of tension and conflict in the region for decades.

The power of the pink vote

Figure 1 displays 16 dot plots arranged in a 4x4 grid, showing the distribution of the number of reads per gene for various genes across four conditions: Control, 100 ng/ml, 1000 ng/ml, and 10000 ng/ml. The genes are arranged in rows: 1. 18S, 2. 18S, 3. 18S, 4. 18S. The x-axis for each plot is 'Number of reads per gene' ranging from 0 to 100. The y-axis is 'Gene' with labels for each gene. The plots show that the number of reads per gene increases with the concentration of the treatment, particularly for the 10000 ng/ml condition.
